Website and app proposal

Prepared for Dan Weinberger by Chris McNosky | November 9, 2026

Dan, explore the website at your pace, with no deposit, deadline or obligation. A short guest walkthrough accompanies this brief; I can guide you through the editor and app screens. Before any deposit, request one agreed, review-scale content, design or behavior change and I will show it in the review build at no charge. Your current ordering stays in place.

Your current costs and the offer

Your current site links its ordering and support through Owner, and the official stores list live iPhone and Android apps associated with Owner.[1] In your interview published November 24, 2025, you reported $2.75 million in prior-year gross sales and $70,000/month in online orders.[2] The online pace annualizes to $840,000. These are historical, self-reported figures, not verified current sales or profit. The interview discussed Popmenu; applying that volume to Owner is a pricing scenario.

Owner's published plans[3]	Annual platform charge
Flat Rate: $499/month	$5,988
Flexible: $249/month + 5%	$44,988 if 5% applies to $840,000

Flat has the lower listed restaurant platform price above $5,000/month online. Your actual plan and fee base are unknown. Owner advertises a broader bundle—including website, ordering, branded app, loyalty and rewards, marketing, setup and migration, chargeback protection, and 24/7 support—than the pickup package described on page 2.

The subscription is only part of the expense. A conditional Flat-plan model totals about $40,000–$49,000/year for subscription and online processing. It assumes $70,000/month in food sales, $25–$40 average orders, all paid by card, 8.25% tax, 0%–20% tips and a 5% guest fee included in the processed charge. It uses Owner's listed 2.9% + 30¢ processing rate and assumes you bear it.[4] This is not your verified bill or a ceiling; delivery and other costs are additional. The 5% support fee itself is customer-paid.[3]

No more than half the verified platform bill

First year: the lower of $2,500 or 50% of your verified annual Owner platform charges. Build, launch, hosting, maintenance and included customization are covered through 12 months after your approved website launch. No setup fee sits outside that cap. Against the published $5,988 Flat subscription, $2,500 is 58% lower.

From month 13, optional care is the lower of $149/month or one twenty-fourth of that same verified annual bill. It is month to month with no automatic enrollment. Before a deposit, fix the price from 12 months of statements, net of credits: subscription plus restaurant platform fees. Processing, taxes, couriers, hardware, store accounts and customer-paid fees are excluded from both sides. The promise halves platform charges, not the cumulative processing-inclusive expense.

Sources checked November 9, 2026: [1] iPhone listing | [1] Android listing | [1] Restaurant | [2] Annual sales [2] Online sales | [3] Owner pricing | [4] Processing guide

The product and the launch support

Ordering and editing built around your menu

Search and compare up to three sandwiches; customize bread, meat, cheese, toppings, sauces, removals and toasting; or use Build Your Own. Save exact creations as device-local My Usuals. Connected checkout rechecks prices and availability. The original logo, yellow and maroon, food photos, story, awards and film stay central.

Edit text, photos, links, navigation, sections, menu items, descriptions, prices, choices and supported appearance settings from a phone or computer. Use private drafts, preview, publish and earlier-version restore. During build and active care, agreed functionality includes replacement layouts, code changes and necessary app builds/submissions, with no additional customization fee or hourly cap. New capabilities or unsupported integrations need separate written agreement.

Both apps and kitchen workflows are included

Native iPhone and Android builds include discovery, comparison, customization, saved bags and My Usuals. Android completion adds no development fee. Native Home/Visit content and supported appearance settings connect to the editor at launch. Device testing, submissions and implementation-related store-review corrections through release are included; Apple and Google control approval and timing.

The connected backend supports pickup windows, a browser kitchen screen, order status, optional ready alerts and operational reports. Timing offers Off, Suggest, Automatic and a staff rush delay, using orders known to this service. Group lunch and catering use shared web workflows for combined orders, staff quotes and deposits.

90 days of defined launch care

The website/backend gets 90 calendar days from approved launch; each app gets its own 90 days from approved production launch, even beyond year one. It covers defects, owner-use questions, publishing or checkout implementation problems, internal links, display fixes and the handoff walkthrough. Use the agreed support channel; status and next steps are recorded, while fix timing follows assessment.

Keep the final 20 percent until acceptance

Payments apply to the agreed capped total: 20% after written price/scope approval; 40% after the production candidate, physical-device builds and staff pilot pass; 20% after website/backend launch, payment/kitchen/refund/recovery checks and handoff; final 20% only after both apps are publicly available in their stores and all written launch checks pass.

I will prepare ten priority sandwiches, with ingredients, modifiers, prices, photos and kitchen-ticket details, for your approval; the complete menu still needs approval. Keep current ordering open during the pilot. Delivery dispatch, rewards, gift-card programs/balances, automated marketing and legacy-data migration are outside this pickup package; agree continuity before canceling your provider.

At website/backend acceptance—before the website/backend 20% payment—you receive owner access, agreed source, exports and deployment/restore instructions, so the accepted web system can be operated and recovered while app-store review is pending. Ending care preserves editing rights; you then fund hosting and maintenance. I charge no order commission or guest platform-support fee.

Local editor and backend checks have passed; separate native projects and dated build records exist. The proposed apps and connected restaurant operations are not live. Physical-device, live-provider, staff, signing, store and complete restore acceptance remain launch work. The no-charge review change does not reduce the agreed customization included in the paid project.

Open the website | Owner login | iPhone overview | Android overview